

Masters of surf photography : Art Brewer / by Journal Concepts, Inc. ; photos by Art Brewer ; forewords by Drew Kampion, Steve Barilotti, C.R. Stecyk III

Description

The photography of surfing has always been an extremely important component of our sport and culture.... Some photographers become enthralled with surfing for a while and then move on to other subject matter. A few track the sport for their entire lives, building bodies of work that span decades, taking on added historical significance, with the photographers themselves becoming noted subcultural figures. Art Brewer is one of the latter. He has photographed surfing and surfers professionally since the late 1960s. He is considered by his fellow photographers and by his photographic subjects as the dean of that highly-specialized art form. Art's editorial, fine art, and commercial photography covers a wide topical range, but his lifelong passion has been shooting the surf and that portion of his work is the focus of this book.
