

The California surf project / by Eric Soderquist ; photos by Chris Burkard

Description

Who hasn't heard the siren call of the California Coast? Packed into a 1978 VW Bus with a quiver of surfboards and a lot of duct tape, Eric Soderquist and Chris Burkard heeded that call one beautiful autumn. They hit the road with absolutely no plan except to start at the Smith River in the north and finish at the Tijuana Sloughs, surfing all along the way. The California Surf Project captures in photos and words every golden moment of their trip - sharing instant noodles around the campfire, hunting for aliens with local experts, getting chased off ranches and military bases, and, of course, scoring tons of perfect waves.
