Description

The Story of Beach Road: A Hidden Pocket of California beach heaven It's a mile and a half of asphalt. On one side of the road are railroad tracks; on the other are houses crammed onto narrow lots. It may not sound like paradise, but to the residents of and visitors to Beach Road, it is. In A Pocket of Paradise, Joe Dunn tells the story of Capistrano Beach's Beach Road, from the days of Junipero Serra, to the early development by the Doheny family, to the creation of the Hobie Cat sailboat right there on the beach. He introduces the locals, tells the stories, and brings to life the small Southern California beach community that's had a big impact on the country's surf and beach-lifestyle culture.
