Description

Having passed away prematurely at age 39 in 1973, just what led Ron Church to become momentarily fascinated with wave riding in 1960 is left to conjecture; perhaps his underwater/Scripps-based friendship with surfer/aquonaut Ricky Grigg (he likes to think that it was). What we do know is that for a relatively short five-year span, Church immersed himself in surfing with the dedication, skill and intensity that he focused on each phase of his life.
