

Five Summer Stories: The Original

Soundtrack featuring Honk

Description

Rolling Stone said of this film "Five Summer Stories"--a film about surfing life so factual and involving that it could only have been made by two surfer-filmmakers, Greg MacGillivray and Jim Freeman. For years MacGillivray and Freeman have been perfecting their art of visual interpretation. It was only natural that they collaborate with Honk, who have been doing the same thing with music. The result in "Five Summer Stories" is a harmony of music and film--a complementing arrangement of audio and visual stimuli. Half of that collaboration is found within--the music Rolling Stone called "beautiful." The music of Honk.
